Addison Cooperative Defeats Measure To Collect DFU Dues

Renken producers met Saturday — Union organizer speaks to group—Sentiment expressed to let Union collect own dues — Members oppose group purchase of ingredients in carload lots.

Members of the Addison Milk Producers Cooperative voted against paying Dairy Farmers Union dues from the cooperative treasury at a meeting held Saturday night in the Addison Grange Hall. Considerable discussion preceded the vote. There were 22 members present out of about 165 bringing milk to the Renken plant.

Charles Stewart, president of the cooperative, presided at the meeting. He stated that the object of the meeting was to decide whether the Dairy Farmers Union dues should be paid from the cooperative treasury, or whether the Union should collect its own dues in some other manner.

Union Membership

Secretary Francis Kane, announced that many of the members of the cooperative had joined the Union and that there are 115 definite commitments from farmers of this vicinity who are drawing milk to the Addison Renken plant. He stated that Mr. Renken had refused to make the deduction of one-half cent per 100 pounds for Union dues. He also stated that the board of directors could not authorize the payment of Union dues, for the board cannot pass on any expenditure exceeding $50. Mr. Kane further stated that the Federal marketing order paid the local cooperative one cent per 100 pounds to help keep the organization going and about $1,000 has been accumulated. This can be used for construction of a plant or anything for the better interests of the local cooperative. Some cooperatives receive two and one-half cents and others receive five cents depending on how much they handle the milk and process it.

Mr. Kane suggested one method of making this cooperative in position to receive a greater income would be to place a man in the Renken plant to test the milk and each farmer would be paid on his own test, but the cooperative would

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

Hitler's air blitzkrieg has been coming sporadically since the end of last week when the climax was reached with a raid on London. The Nazis used between one and two thousand planes in last Friday's attack which did much property damage but evidently failed to reach the center of the world metropolis. Failure to drive British planes out of the skies above England leads some observers to believe Hitler may not be able to gain control of the air which might force him to abandon the much advertised invasion of the British Isles.

President Roosevelt has been carrying on negotiations with the British relative to leasing naval and air bases on the Atlantic. Prime Minister Churchill has stated his government offered the use of these bases for leases of 99 years.

In spite of protestation by Senator Mead of this state that we will not let the British have 50 obsolete destroyers the question of such a transfer continues hot news about Washington. Churchill told Parliament this week these destroyers would greatly strengthen the British navy and some political observers on this side the Atlantic believe the lease of British bases by the U. S. is tied in with the transfer of destroyers.

Debate over conscription continues to hold the attention of Congress with belief growing among anti-draft Congressmen the bill will finally contain a provision to delay actual drafting of men until January first.

An air attack on the fortress of Gibraltar Tuesday was said to have caused a big fire in the middle of the rock which holds the keys to defense of the Mediterranean sea lanes.

Britain evacuated Somaliland to vastly superior Italian forces this week. Italians hail the capture of the African desert land as a great victory which will enable them to strike at British naval bases at Aden.

Wendell Willkie accepted the Republican nomination for President Saturday afternoon before an audience of about 200,000 at Elwood, Ind. Willkie's challenge to Mr. Roosevelt to debate the issues of the campaign face to face was not

Wednesday Closing Ends August 28

Wednesday, August 28 will mark the last of the Wednesday afternoon store closings in Addison for this year. Most of the Main street merchants have cooperated in closing their doors at 12:30 each Wednesday noon during July and August and remained closed until the following Thursday morning. In this way clerk, proprietors and managers have had the half-holiday for some outside activity or leisure time activity. As far as can be learned all stores will remain open Wednesday afternoons hereafter.

An informal survey of most of the grocery stores reveals that they will remain open half a day Labor Day, following the Sunday week-end.

American Legion Cooperates For Mobilization

The National American Legion program calls for close cooperation between the national, state and local Posts with the Federal Government in providing services for which the Legion men and women are experienced.

The last meeting of the Williams Greengrass Post held Wednesday night in the Post rooms was devoted to a discussion and explanation of the Legion Mobilization plan as set up by the National Headquarters with ranking army, navy and government officers.

William E. Newman, recently appointed county mobilization officer will be in charge of the county programs. He is former commander of the Addison Post.

The Legion will take over tasks assigned by the government. This may include home defense, airplane watching, mobilization of resources of a community in an emergency, aid to local military units, aid to Red Cross units, assistance to soldiers and sailors confined in communities and many other services which may develop in an emergency. Nothing may be required, but a preparedness program is being worked out in which the Williams-Greengrass members will cooperate.

The local Legion members completed their moving from the former quarters in the Grammar School building to the Village Hall where they are sharing quarters with the Welles Hose members.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark operated the station for several years and the fact that she has relinquished the station duties comes as a surprise to her many friends.

Sail Boat on Goodhue Owned by Town

The first sail boat to navigate the waters of Goodhue Lake appeared there during this week-end. It is a 15-foot Cornet, is owned by Llewellyn Towne. The boat was built by the Penn Yan Boat Company and was delivered Tuesday at the lake and set up by boat company employees.

Llewellyn took the boat out after one lesson and after racing across decks, dodging the "boom" and getting all tangled up in ropes, finally managed to learn how to navigate under full and light blows. He states the craft goes better against the wind than with it, once you get to know the ropes. It has had a great deal of fun with it so far.

Cooking School Opens Friday, August 30 in Village Hall

Advertiser-Sentinel invites women of communities served by this paper—Three different demonstrations by noted home economist and lecturer—Valuable gifts and household supplies will be distributed each day of the school.

The Addison Advertiser-Woodhull Sentinel announces with pleasure that arrangements have been completed for the cooking school to be conducted by Miss Ruth Richardson, noted lecturer and home economist of the Spry Research Kitchens, Cambridge, Mass., who is making a lecture tour. This feature event will be held Fridays, August 30, September 6 and 13 at Addison village hall.

There will be a different program with the different recipes for each day of the school.

A printed program containing all recipes, tested and approved in the Spry Research Kitchens, will be presented to each person attending. Delicious and economical dishes will be prepared, cooked on the stage, explained step by step to the audiences and presented daily to lucky women by Miss Richardson. Every woman is given an opportunity to participate in the distribution of the many valuable gifts at each session, some of which are distributed by Lever Brothers and by local merchants.

In addition to these valuable gifts, 15 baskets of groceries and other well-known household supplies will be distributed at each session.

Erie Gates Crashed By Jasper Truck

The Erie railroad crossing gate at Main Street has been treated pretty good this season, for so far only one motorist has gone through the gates and broken them as compared to weekly breaks last year.

The break came Saturday morning when a truck from Jasper, east bound, sailed into the gate, breaking the south gate. The driver of the truck became confused and stalled the vehicle. George Wilder of the Wall Street Garage saved the day and the truck.

Motion Pictures of Addison People at Avon

Harry Rigo of the Ideal Film Company has been in Addison taking motion pictures of local people for a home motion picture show which is to be seen at the Avon Theatre August 29 and 30. He expects to have about 400 feet of completed film with local people before the film is complete. He made a specialty of candid shots unknown to local people and in many cases the local people could see they were being photographed.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Chemicals were used to quench a blaze in a chimney in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Harry, Steuben street last Friday afternoon. The damage was slight.

Cooking School Opens Friday, August 30 in Village Hall

Advertiser-Sentinel invites women of communities served by this paper—Three different demonstrations by noted home economist and lecturer—Valuable gifts and household supplies will be distributed each day of the school.

Miss Richardson, talented lecturer and writer on food subjects, has arranged each program with an eye to helping women with their home problems. She turns out delicious light cakes, tender flaky pastry, and a variety of appetizing economical foods that will delight her listeners. Best of all, she shows you how to get the same results in your own kitchen.

Miss Richardson has arranged a well planned program for the cooking school. Not only are there new recipes but some time-saving methods on the old ones. This reporter was amazed to learn from Miss Richardson that it was no longer necessary to make a complete new pie crust every time one wanted to bake a pie. Enough crust for 12 large pies may be made up in advance with little or no effort and kept on the pantry shelf until ready for use.

There are many other ideas that will be explained and best of all Miss Richardson presents each person a folder of tested recipes so that she too may get the same results.

Watch these columns for further details of the cooking school. In the meanwhile, reserve the dates Friday afternoons August 30, September 6 and September 13.

WILLKIE'S ACCEPTANCE

"What we need in America today is a new leadership that believes in the destiny of America. I represent here today the forces that will bring that leadership to you." Thus spoke Wendell L. Willkie in Elwood, Ind. last Saturday as he accepted the Republican nomination for President while two hundred thousand looked on and millions more the length and breadth of the land listened over the radio.

They listened, for the country has waited nearly two months for this speech which would give the personal views of a candidate almost unknown to a majority of his countrymen six months ago. Forgotten were all the clauses of the Republican platform drafted at Philadelphia in June. Forgotten was all the flowing rhetoric and bombastic political jargon which usually hides the full significance of words in partisan speeches. But while these were forgotten there were many other things of national importance remembered by the millions who drank in every word which fell from Willkie's lips.

Remembered was the fact that America up to a few years ago was always a land of promise where "any young man might become President".
For Wendell Willkie firmly believes that this country can again become a land of opportunity for a career for "every boy or girl willing to stand on his own feet, and to work, and to fight."

Throughout the length of the speech there rang out a dominant note—a note of clear honesty, coupled with frankness which caused the candidate to use some words he described as "brutal, but terrible fact." Our way of conducting business with Hitler's way was "a matter of honesty range." He pointed out the danger of the selective draft and stated without hesitating, "I cannot ask the American people to put their faith in me, without recording my conviction that some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to secure the trained and competent man-power we need for national defense."

Willkie's honesty again rang forth as he expressed agreement with certain reforms of the Roosevelt Administration, emphasizing the scorn he heaped upon the tragic failures perpetrated by the New Deal. He called the New Deal doctrine the "I pass doctrine", and stated it refused to make any more bets on the American future.
Carrying the point farther Willkie said this course was exactly like that France pursued under the Blum government.

Continuing his indictment of the New Deal Willkie related how labor had been set up against capital and capital against labor and the idea of scarcity had been preached. "I say," Willkie stated, "that we must substitute for the philosophy of distributed scarcity the philosophy of unlimited productivity. I stand for the restoration of full production and re-employment by private enterprise in America."

"And I say that we must henceforth ask certain questions of every reform, and of every law to regulate business or industry. We must ask: Has it encouraged industries to produce? Has it created new opportunities for our youth? Will it increase our standard of living? Will it encourage us to open up new and better worlds?"

"The reform that cannot meet these tests is not a true liberal reform. It is an 'I pass' reform."

The high spot of the reception of his address came when Willkie proposed a challenge to the President to meet him face to face to debate the great national issues of the campaign on the same platform. Applause for the proposal was spontaneous and so prolonged it was with great difficulty he was able to resume the address.
There were many instances when cheering of the audience brought brief pauses in the delivery, but aside from the debate proposal the crowd seemed to hang upon his words so intently they appeared unwilling to interrupt the speaker.

The address contained a wealth of strong appeal to both the seen and unseen audience, and this appeal was the call to reason, not rabblerousing incitement to mass feeling too frequently put forth on such occasions. It opened the campaign on a high plane of discussion of questions of greatest national importance. It is to be hoped all partisan speakers on both sides will adhere to this qualitative type of discussion thruout the campaign.

THE FARMER AND DEMOCRACY

The future of agricultural marketing cooperation in America depends upon the future of democracy in America. That was the main theme which ran through all the sessions of the recent meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation.

Delegates representing 2,500,000 farmers attended. They saw, in present world and domestic conditions, the greatest challenge that the farmer and the marketing cooperative move have ever faced. They also saw a great opportunity for service to the nation.

Such a movement as marketing cooperation is possible only in a democracy. It represents the combined efforts of free men—individualists, if you will—living in a free land. It is purely voluntary—it is not dictated.

UNNECESSARY NOISE

A reader recently complained bitterly about the unnecessary noise made by cars and trucks in Addison. "It is an outrage," he said, "that the officers in this town will do nothing to curb this noise. Trucks are allowed to roar through the streets with their cut-outs wide open, in spite of the fact there is a fifty-dollar fine for such an offense!"

Many other residents will be ready to agree the criticism is well founded. In these days when America moves on wheels there is always plenty of unavoidable noise in the streets without our suffering the avoidable, and even the malicious type. Often cars are heard running through the streets of the village late at night exploding "back-fires" every few rods that sound like a gunshot, and awakening every sleeping person on the street traversed. Other trucks are heard roaring through town early in the morning with a racket certain to cut an hour or two of sleep from more than one person's night of rest.

These things are truly a public nuisance, as our reader states. Citizens have a right to enjoy what rest they can without being disturbed by avoidable noise. Perhaps the disturbance comes from pure thoughtlessness of those responsible—they are up and awake, and perhaps do not stop to think others are trying to sleep. If that is the case they will be glad to heed a gentle warning from those officials supposed to look into such things. If the nuisance is maliciously intentional, then our complainant should be justified in insisting the police act to put a stop to it.

OUR STRONGEST DEFENSE

Debate throughout the nation, in the press and on the street, relative to the sale or barter of fifty or sixty destroyers to the British has taken on a stronger note since Prime Minister Churchill indicated his government was willing to lease us certain island bases on this side of the Atlantic for use as air and sea forces. It is a long exercised Yankee trait to want to drive a good bargain and what better bargain could we get than to trade some nearly obsolete ships for the right to erect American defense outposts outside the coast of our continent?

The Hawaiian Islands have long been recognized as of tremendous defense value to our Pacific coast since we erected fortifications and a base for our fleet there. Addition of an air base as planes came to military use has made the little group formerly known as the Sandwich Islands a stronghold of power in the Pacific.
Possession of Alaska in the North Pacific gives us another series of westward strategic points which are to be fortified for further protection of that side of our country.

However, we have no such advantage on the eastern approach to the continent. Establishment of U. S. Bases on the Bermudas would give us a listening post and contact station from which destroyers and planes could easily patrol the ocean highways for approaching enemy craft on the water or in the air. Additional bases in the West Indies will greatly add to the defense of our Panama Canal which has become the lifeline of our naval power. In these days when the country is thinking continuously in terms of national defense, as well as pouring out billions to hurry agencies to protect us from invasion, it is hard to visualize a bigger bargain than to acquire new and advanced Atlantic bases. Gaining century-long title to such bases from Newfoundland to the South American coast would be worth far more to us in dollars than the destroyers in question.

Acquisition of these bases while of tremendous value to the pursuit of our defense program does not go far enough. We have great and vital interests in the far Pacific as well as in the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico. From the East Indies come rubber and other commodities of particular value to our country moving on wheels and swinging into defense. The arrogant, blood-thirsty Japanese are making unpleasant gestures to show they would like to cut us off from trade in that region and completely dominate the Pacific.

This we should not countenance. Japanese moves against us are actuated by 85 per cent braggadocio, but their threats against British control of the sealanes stems from the knowledge Britain has her hands completely full fighting Germany. The Japanese bluff can be called by one power alone, and that is our navy but our navy operating on the other side of the Pacific is placed in a precarious position by the lack of a proper base. This weakness of ours would be quickly overcome by making a deal with the British to lease the great naval base at Singapore for joint use of our fleet.

Move the main squadron of our fleet to the South China coast and see how quickly the Japanese would abandon the arrogant, threatening attitude towards Americans. There is only one language thoroughly understood by the victor nations such as Japan—the language expressed by show of force. We are not wanting or looking for war with any nation, but we should

Steuben Good Place To Buy Dairy Cattle

The Steuben County Farm Bureau was host on Monday and Tuesday of this week to a party of Orange County farmers and dealers brought here for the purpose of promoting the sale of dairy cows into that region.

Steuben County farmers grow a surplus of heifers beyond their replacement needs, and the sale of dairy cows has long been an important part of their operation.
Since the county-wide tuberculin test in 1922, the local Farm Bureau has advertised Steuben as a source of dairy cattle, has promoted the sale of local stock throughout the eastern United States.

The growing of dairy heifers is a business well suited to local conditions, the Farm Bureau states, because Steuben has more than a quarter of a million acres of permanent pasture, and 190,000 acres are in meadow. Grass is abundant and cheap as compared to the intensive milk producing areas near the metropolitan market, which is the reason why areas like Steuben grow cattle, and why the dairymen of southeastern New York, New Jersey and New England buy herd replacements.

Steuben cattle are sound of health and of good production, the Farm Bureau claims, and points to the aggressive breeding program of local dairymen.

Steuben ranks first among all counties of New York, and is a leader in the nation in the number of cooperative bull associations.
One hundred forty-two herds are members of the dairy herd improvement associations which keep continuous production records on all cows in the herd.

This program of herd improvement is one of the reasons why Steuben County is preferred by eastern buyers, the Farm Bureau states.

SAFETY ADVICE

No. 3—A Word on Safety Automobile drivers—your police-department would like a word with you on the subject of safety.

You surely don't want to be involved in an accident. You don't want to injure anyone else. You don't want to get hurt.

Here is the best rule for keeping out of accidents we know.

That rule is—look far enough ahead!

Do that and you will drive safer.
How does looking ahead help the driver to avoid accidents to himself and others? Listen. It's very simple.

You know when a car is under way it is a rolling weight. Whatever the rate of speed at which it is traveling, it moves with a force called momentum. The higher the rate of speed, the higher the momentum—and the more power it takes, the more time it takes, and the more distance it takes to stop.

Stopping isn't just one simple action—just a jamming on the brakes, even if they are good brakes, in the best of condition.

There are really three things we have to do in order to stop a car at any speed. First, we have to think of stopping, saying to ourselves "I must stop". That takes time. Next, we have to move one foot over on the brake pedal. That takes time.
And every second while we are thinking and acting, until the car actually comes to rest, momentum is carrying it on.

Do you realize that even if you are going only 20 miles an hour, if you are the average good driver, your car will travel 22 feet before you can even start to use the brakes. Then after you do get the brakes to working, it takes another 18 feet to stop completely.

So let blustering dictatorships scare us out of the trade lanes of China and the East Indies any more than we allowed the Pirate crews to frighten us away from the north Africa shore more than a century ago. The old slogan of

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Imaginary Interviews:

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley

Franklin—So you're really going into baseball?

Jim—Yes, after the last eight years in politics it seems a great business.

Franklin—What's baseball got that politics hasn't got?

Jim—Well, for one thing, the rules are accepted as applying to everybody on the team.

Franklin—I didn't know you were so anxious to get into baseball.

Jim—And I didn't know you were so anxious to stay in the White House.

Franklin—What's the big appeal of the game to you, Jim?
Jim—Among other things, there's never any doubt about who's running.

Franklin—I thought you had a bright future in the Democratic party, Jim.

Jim—So did I.

Franklin—I hate to see you go.
Don't you like it here with me.

Jim—It was all right as long as I knew what position I was playing and who was at bat.

Franklin—You were always a good first baseman.

Jim—That was my idea, too, up to the time I discovered I was wearing a catcher's mask.

Franklin—Have you any objection to a catcher's mask?

Jim—Not when I know what's being thrown to me.

Franklin—I hear you paid four billion dollars for the Yanks.

Jim—Million, not billion.

Franklin—My goodness! Are there still some people who deal in mere millions? Where did you get that much money, Jim? You never were in the movie, or on the air or on any newspaper staff.

Jim—It was one of the few cases in the country in which a Democrat and four million dollars got together on something that was not a federal relief project.

Franklin—Aren't the Yanks a relief project?

Jim—Not yet. They only looked that way the first part of the season.

Franklin—Don't you think you will feel strange going around the country with a lot of baseball players?

Jim—Why?

Franklin—Because you've been so long going around with politicians.

Jim—It's the same thing, except that in baseball, spiking is illegal.

Franklin—well, I wish you luck, Jim. But the Yanks aren't a sure thing this fall.

Jim—Neither are the Democrats.

Many years ago at a Boy Scout camp, a learned man of international reputation was the speaker. He was talking on father and son relationships. And one of the things I remember him saying was a quotation from a poem, "Take a night off and spend it with the boys".
The theme was based on fathers spending some time with their sons before losing them to outside activities. And it sounded pretty good then and even better now with the Little Rambler seeking attention and saying, "Daddy, fix", when he wants a toy wound up or something fixed.

And while on the subject of play —there are many adults who do not know how to play. I think they are losing something soul-satisfying in life. To be able to get into a crowd, join in the sport and enjoy it, win lose or draw is a wonderful asset. And there are many in this community, as in others, who are resentful of those who do know how to play.

There are still some organizations who are forgetting the Community Calendar sponsored by the Advertising Club.

The Rambler welcomes Stacy Newman and his wife back to the theatre business in Addison. They were long identified with the theatre here and the announcement in last week's Advertiser-Sentinel that they were again to manage the Avon Theatre is most welcome news.
I wish them success in their venture.

And the Rambler also wishes success and prosperity to Mrs. May Williams in her new shop. This should prove a distinct asset to Addison.

It's in the Bible

The Very Rev. Charles E. Mc-Allister, D. D., Dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist, Episcopal, Washington, advises:

If you have the blues, read the 1st Psalm.

If your pocketbook is empty, read the 37th Psalm.

If people seem unkind, read St.
John, 15th chapter.

If your prayers seem not to be answered, read St. Matthew, 6th chapter.

If discouraged about your work, read Psalm 126.

If you have lost confidence in people, read I Corinthians, 13th chapter.

If you can't have your own way about everything, keep silent and study diligently the 3rd chapter of the Epistle of St.
James.

A western man organized a plan to reward young people for courtesy acts and improved the manners of an entire country. This is now an annual affair out there. Something like that should be tried here. Young men seem to have gone far from their dad's ideas of courtesy to a woman and young people in general seem careless in their manners. I suppose many of them never learned there are such niceties in life.

I'm always reminded of a story they tell about the late Marshall Foch, generalissimo of the Allied Armies during the last World War.
He was extremely polite. A man in Detroit took him to task for over-emphasis on politeness and manners and asked the General what good they were. The General replied "they are like rubber tires on a car, not necessary for the operation of the car, but they ease the traveler's way."

Cows like cabbage salad, sandwiches, pickles and even dresses I learned last week. And I was not the only one who learned it. My information came second hand. A quartet of local people went on a picnic Wednesday afternoon. They decided to cool off before eating so went swimming in upper Tuscarora creek. When they returned cows were contentedly munching the picnic lunch and had disposed of it and part of a dress belonging to one of the women. A Main Street merchant was involved and has taken quite a ribbing on the incident.

The Advertiser-Sentinel Cooking school is not far away. Three different shows will be held on successive Friday afternoons beginning August 30 with a lecturer and demonstrator. There will be gifts galore for those who attend.

That's all.

—The Rambler.

Addison Trims Jasper, 6 to 5

The Jasper entry in the Steuben County League came, saw and was conquered in Addison Sunday afternoon in a ninth inning rally which netted Addison two runs and the game.

The visitors were held to two hits by Louis Dominick pitching for Addison. The winners scored 10 hits from the offerings of Meyer, Russ Wade scored the only extra base hit of the game, getting a two bagger and driving Fran Heidrick home ahead of the play.

The visitors scored runs in the first, third and fifth innings and the Addisonites scored runs in the fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth.

Dominick struck out 12 hitters while giving up five bases on balls accounting for three runs by the losers. Addison had one unearned run.

Francis Heidrick stole everything but the bats in getting six stolen bases for the day's efforts.

The game was logy in spots as the host team started without a base-ball and had to buy one from the Jasper outfit. The one ball got lost in the tall Vastbinder grass several times, slowing up the game.

Towanda—Miss Eva Bostwick, 17, gave her life to save Leon Northrup, 11, from drowning, Aug. 8.

Jimmy Lynch's Hell Dodgers at Chemung Fair

Jimmy Lynch, whose famous "Hell Dodgers" will be one of the outstanding attractions of the Chemung County Fair, which opens in Elmira, August 26 for the entire week, receives more applications from youngsters who want jobs with his outfit.

When a new applicant is hired he is given an old car and then at a slow speed is permitted to crash another car so that the first jolt will not make his lose his nerve; then he is sent back at a greater speed to again crash head-on, and so on till he masters the idea.

Then comes the lesson in turning a car over traveling at a terrific speed, and if he survives that, then he is taught to drive a speeding car over a stalled truck. If he survives this then he becomes a full fledged member of the "Hell Drivers" and he plays hide and seek with the Devil from then on.

While the "Hell Dodger" seems just like a thrill show to you folks who sit in the grandstand and thrill to the nerve wracking stunts of these young daredevils, it takes many years of experiments with old cars to make the timing perfect so that at a certain spot, they will crash.

It is surprising to know how many girls apply for the job of breaking their pretty necks, but Jimmy says that he hasn't the heart to put a pretty girl behind the wheel and let her take the chance of playing tag with the Angels.

Even the best of "Hell Dodgers" make a mistake then it's the hospital and no matter how good you are there is a possible chance that you may misjudge your distance which will result in being placed on the retired list for keeps.

This year at the Chemung County Fair, Jimmy Lynch's "Hell Dodgers" have many new and dangerous stunts planned for the Fair, and if you have a weak heart you had better take a ride on the merry-go-round, where you have a better chance of living to a ripe old age.

The "Hell Dodgers" will be here just one day, so you had better make plans of seeing this unusual thrill show.

Much can be learned from this group of daredevil who are mighty proud of their record on the highway. They drive according to the speed laws and never take a chance of meeting a demented driver on the road. Jimmy issues strict orders when they are on the highway to stop and give old folks and children the right of way. They never take chances.

After seeing this wonderful thrill show, be sure to remember that your car will do the same rollovers, and turn over on a highway and that your chances of surviving a wreck are less than the boys on the track who know how to handle a car when it turns over.

Drive carefully and a minute gained by recklessness may give your local undertaker some business.

—Jimmy Lynch.

New York-Penn Firemen Elect Curns Head

Chief George Curns of Horseheads was chosen president of the New York-Penn Firemen's Association at the annual convention held in Horseheads last Thursday and Friday. He takes the place of John O'Keefe, Addison Chief who has been president for the past two years.

Elkland was chosen as the host community for the 1941 convention. A spirited contest developed between Addison and Elkland for the seventh annual gathering, Elkland won out by a vote of 43 to 26. Wellsboro, Pa., and Arkport also made a bid.

Vice presidents of the association were elected as follows: Chief Ray Green of Galeton, Chief Lawrence Ladd of Elmira Heights, Chief H. J. Keeley of Canisteo and Chief Leland Scott of Westfield, Pa. Roland Kennedy of Avoca was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting will be held in Elkland in September at which time Chief O'Keefe will be honored by being presented a gold badge.

The big feature of the convention after the elections and choice of the next convention place was the parade in which over 2,000 firemen with apparatus of several vintage participating. There was comedy in the parade, much being provided by Horseheads, with firemen of 1960 in line and women's auxiliary members in costumes of several past generations.

A banquet was held with Senator Chauncey Hammond, Mayor J. Maxwell Beers of Elmira, Fire Chief Collins of Elmira, Mayor Oliver Eisenhart of Horseheads, and Assemblyman Harry J. Tift as speakers.

Owego—Older Boy Scouts of the community are conducting swimming classes for younger boys of the village.

Ice Cream Socials

Two ice cream socials were held during the past week. Ladies of the Methodist Church realized over $17 on their sale held Saturday night on the Valerio Parkway Lawn. The Baptist women held theirs Tuesday on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mullen, Steuben street. Owing to the chilly weather "weiners" and coffee were also sold. The net proceeds were over $20.

No Initials Accepted On Primary Petitions

Many persons throughout the county who signed their initials to primary petitions might just as well not signed the petitions. A New York State law effective this year states that full names must be on the petitions. J. J. Roe does not go, it must be John J. Roe or John Joseph Roe or Mrs. John J. Roe.

Several petitions presented were initially effected by throwing out of names at the election commissioner's office in Bath. The petition of E. Ray Hardenbrook lost 800 names by the throw off compelled by law. However, he had enough names to have the petition accepted.

Beatrice Spencer Is Honored at Shower

Miss Anna Brennan, formerly of Addison and Mrs. Luella McCarthy, Corning, were co-hostesses at a spaghetti supper given last Monday night to Miss Beatrice Spencer, 293 Sly Avenue. The supper was also in the nature of a personal shower given the guest-of-honor on her approaching marriage to Edwin Chartson of Mr. and Mrs. John Chart, Addison. The dinner was given in the Sunnyside Restaurant. Miss Spencer and Mr. Chart will be married September 1.

Those attending the affair were, Mrs. John Taft, Mrs. Clara Chart, Mrs. John Chart, Mrs. Arnold Gable all of Addison; Mrs. Margaret McCaig, Mrs. Donald McCarthy, Mrs. Margaret Patterson, Mrs. George Quinn, Mrs. Jack Hern, Mrs. Leland Burke, Mrs. Llewellyn Spencer, Mrs. Ellray Poland, Mrs. Nettie Rose, Misses Eloise Spencer, Gertrude Farrell, Beverly Spencer, Cyrrilla Pack, Velma Rose and the guest of honor.

SPORTS GOSSIP

Looks to me as the Addison played smart in insisting that the Jasper-Addison game be played in Addison Sunday. The Addisonites won 6 to 5 in a last inning rally. Not that I have anything against Jasper, but the game belonged in Addison and should have been played there and not in Jasper as the management there wanted.

There has been some dissention on the Addison team but it seems to have ironed itself out during the past week and the team played good ball Sunday. This in spite of the fact the team does little practicing and owns few baseballs.

And right up on top of the Cleveland heap is Bob Feller with 21 victories. Maybe 22 by this time. Some going for a kid.

Whizzer White, Rhodes scholar without a place to go, has signed with the Detroit professionals in the National Football League. He should prove an asset to that team.

Heard the other day that an old favorite of mine, Jim Thorpe, America's outstanding athlete of all time, is now on a lecture tour speaking on "Sportsmanship". He played pro football when 40 years of age, was outfielder in the National League, played basketball at 50, won more Olympic races than any individual since those famous events have been held. What a figure for a story of clean living, clean athletic partnership and good fellowship in big company for three decades.

Drane Lester, ex-G-man, who spoke at several meetings in this vicinity one and two years ago, is being prominently mentioned for sports czar for 10 southeastern colleges, with headquarters in Atlanta. The job pays $10,000, considerable more than a G-man gets. He is a lawyer by profession.

Incidentally times may be bad (which is not incidentally with some, but a major problem) but there have been more attendants at the daily races in Saratoga than at any time in recent years. A 20,000 day is common and that figure exceeds best days in previous years. Bets Saturday alone went near the three-quarter million mark.

Bimelich, Col. Bradley's famous money horse of the year was injured Saturday and will be unable to compete in future races. The horse has a foot injury.

Girls also go well in skeet for Miss Patricia Laursen, young collegian of Akron, Ohio, a most good-looking blonde, won the woman's meet with 246 targets out of 250.

Three Games With One-Run Leads Mark Steuben League Play Sunday

Caton, Fibre Box and Addison score victories—Extra base hits tell story in all games—Good pitching recorded—Enderle of Caton leads in stick work.

Gang Mills, league leaders in the Steuben County League dropped a game Sunday to a hard fighting Caton nine as Bob Enderle secured five hits in five trips to the plate. That plus the pitching of Mattison and the master-minding of Art Hurd helped the Catonites to victory. Hurd took over the managerial reins of the Caton nine for the first time Sunday after several years of team participation. The winners scored 11 runs on 16 hits and the losers were one run behind with 10 runs for 12 hits. Enderle secured a three bagger, a double decker and three singles in his trips to the plate. Sunday the Hurd crew plays Lindley a double header at Lawrenceville.

Leo Troy, Jr., Improving—

Leo Troy, Jr., was brought to his home in Beartown last week after spending some time in St. Joseph's Hospital, Elmira. He was in a motor car driven by Michael O'Brien of Elmira. The car was in a collision with a car driven by Mrs. Verna May Dickenson and overturned. Leo had been visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Hourihan in Elmira. He is Master of Addison Juvenile Grange. His condition is reported as improved.

The American League race for top honors is still breezing along with Detroit and Cleveland battling it out for first place. As this was being written Detroit was one game up on Cleveland with Boston six games behind the top place team. This is a much different situation than in the past four years when the Yankees were so far out in front at this time of year that other teams just battled for second place series money.

Steuben Traffic Count Shows Increase on Most Highways

Week-end survey made by State Highway Department employees—Busiest road in county is Painted Post-Corning—Route 17 shows big increase.

As was expected, an increase in traffic count was taken last Saturday. The volume of traffic and the number of vehicles marking the increase could only be determined by the traffic count.

The busiest road in the county is the Corning-Painted Post road. A total of 13,220 cars were counted on this road in a 24 hour period from 7 a. m. Saturday to 7 a. m. Sunday. This is about 1200 cars more than the same period last year.

The eastern outlet for Corning on the Gibson Road totaled 9,023 cars of which 5,830 were in the Saturday daylight hours. This is about 400 more than last year.

The only other 24-hour count locally was made on the Painted Post-Campbell road at the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western viaduct, Painted Post. There 7,026 machines passed. This is the only vicinity station to show a decline from 1939, when 7,197 cars passed the point.

The 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. counts made at other vicinity points follow (they are compared with figures from last year):

Erwin-Lawrenceville road, at state line, 2,046. Last year on this route, 1,348 vehicles were recorded.

Painted Post-Campbell, near the River Bend, 3,453. In 1939, 2,923 machines passed the station in that area.

The tabulation on the Corning Post Creek road, at the city line, showed 1,201 Saturday. This compares with 1,143 last year.

At the Gang Mills airport on the Painted Post-Addison road, 3,406 machines were counted. There were 3,095 checked at Gang Mills last year.

Farther west on Route 17, a mile east of Addison, 2,148 vehicles passed, as contrasted with 1,462 a year ago.

The Caton-Corning road showed 1,674 cars. There were 1,606 last year.

Near Addison, on the Addison-Rathbone road, 528 machines were counted, compared to 474 in 1939. Between Jasper and Addison there were 1,638 vehicles, an increase over 1,432 seen a year ago.

Livestock-Poultry Entries Increase at State Fair

Syracuse, Aug. 21 — The second largest dairy cattle show since 1932, with entries up 257 head over the total of last year, will be one of the most successful highlights of the agricultural division of the New York State Fair, celebrating its Centennial this year from August 25 through September 2, in Syracuse.

Upon completion of the tabulation of entries, it was announced that 932 head of dairy cattle have been entered for this year's show as against 675 head in 1939. In all cattle classifications entries total 1,352, an increase of 207 over last year, and the second largest show since the record year of 1932, exceeded only by 1938's high entry.

The increase is proportionately the same for all breeds. Holstein cattle will have the largest representation with 293 head; Guernsey second with 153 head; and Ayrshire a close third with 151. A total of 141 Jerseys, 72 Brown Swiss, 67 Herefords and 55 Aberdeen-Angus have also been entered.

Judging of the cattle divisions will begin Thursday, August 27, in the Fair's mammoth Coliseum, and will continue, embracing all breeds and classifications, through Thursday, August 29. Breed judging will be held 27 and 28, for Holstein-Friesian; Ayrshire, 28-29; Guernsey, 27-28-29; Brown Swiss, 28-29; Aberdeen-Angus, 27-28; and Hereford, 27-29.

Practically every other department of the agricultural section of the Fair surpasses last year's total of entries. The most noticeable increase of entries already tabulated is found in the Poultry Department with 6,173 fowl entered this year as against 5,929 in 1939.

This constitutes an increase of 244 entries over last year which is based on the mounting interest in standard bred poultry. Entries in this department total 2,127 in the exhibition class establishing a Fair record.

Tabulation of the various other classes in the department exhibit, include: 321 ducks, 37 guineas, 75 turkeys, 135 geese, 968 pigeons, 954 bantams, 655 rabbits and 314 canaries. In the production classes, 410 entries have been made in the poultry division and 73 in the turkey classes. Fifteen quality flocks have been entered and a total of 78 egg exhibits.

Another big feature of the poultry division will be an exceedingly large rare water fowl exhibition provided by the Euclid Game Farm of Clay.

Home Bureau Starts Active Fall Program

During the summer months most organized Home Bureau units in the county have not held regular meetings but with the opening of school homesteaders, too, will launch on another year of study in their adult education program. Recently, Mrs. Ruth Comstock, housing specialist from the College of Home Economics, spent two days visiting homesteaders in Arkport, Hornell and Woodhull, advising them on various housing problems.

Plans are complete for the State Fair exhibit on Cleaning Rugs and Upholstery and the committee in charge will journey to Syracuse to act as attendants throughout the Fair, August 25 through September 2. This same exhibit will be shown at the Bath Fair in the Home Bureau booth in the main Fair building. The Bureau's plans for the Bath Fair are in charge of Mrs. Aaron Putnam of Wheeler and also includes the selling of milk through the Bath Fair, September 10 through 14, at the milk booth. The Home Bureau has sponsored the sale of milk in this way for a number of years and many folks who attend the Fair regularly are regular customers.

During September, leaders from local units will receive training in several different projects. September 4 and 5 at Howard and Woodhull town halls, respectively, leaders will receive their first instruction in Reconditioning Furniture. Each unit is entitled to send two leaders and to bring one article of furniture to recondition. These will be all-day training schools.

On September 5 and 6 there will be district demonstrations of Canning Vegetables and Meat. These demonstrations are open to all homesteaders and will begin promptly at 2:00 P. M. At Howard the meeting will be held in the auditorium of the school at Greenwood in the home economics laboratory. These demonstrations will be given by Mrs. C. C. Cornue of Avoca.

Unit Gardening Leaders will gather on September 18 for the training school on Choice and Care of House Plants to be given by Miss Lucille Smith, college specialist. Leaders will be notified of the exact place of this meeting.

September is Home Bureau membership month and a contest with special prizes has already been planned. Local vice chairmen are in charge of the canvass which will close Friday, September 20, with the membership rally to be held at the Methodist Church in Painted Post. The day's festivities will start with lunch served at noon. There will be a special program in the afternoon, and announcement of contest winners.

On Thursday, September 26, there will be a special meeting of unit leaders in Household Management. The day's program will include a discussion of cupboard arrangements and a tour of some of the kitchens in Steuben and Allegany Counties where outstanding work has been done in cupboard arrangement. This meeting will be in charge of Miss Delpha Wiesendanger, college specialist, who will remain in the county for kitchen conferences on Friday, September 27. During the summer, in addition to preparation of programs and plans for the coming year's work a new unit has been organized in Hornell called the Riverside Unit. Organization meetings are being planned for Wayland, Presheo and Lindley. This will bring the total number of organized units in the county well over 20.

Old Tymers and Nine Old Men Clash in Baseball Saturday

A long standing feud between John O'Keefe, baseball player, umpire and critic and John "Lefty" Flynn is to be settled Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the high school diamond, when the former brings 28 Old Tymers, average age, 55, to Addison to play against the Nine Old Men, captained by "Lefty" Flynn.

The respective captains and members of the two teams have been arguing the merits of their respective teams for the past three years. They have tried to arrange games at various times but without results.

The present drive of the Red Cross for funds for European relief provided the needed incentive and both managers began an argument which ended in a challenge to the Nine Old Men, who are not really old. The challenge came after the Nine Old Men defeated the Addison Merchants in a decisive fashion recently.

The Nine Old Men got their name because of the fact many of the team had been declared too old to play on the town team and appear old to some of the youngsters on the high school and town team. This in spite of the fact the players are in semi-pro and amateur ball on many diamonds at the present time.

The Old Tymers, most of them long since retired from active participation in baseball but believe that the old brand of ball is superior to the present baseball.

O'Keefe has lined up the following well known Old Tymers, and some are old too, Charles "Duff" Edwards, Matthew "Doc" Whitmore, James Gilhooly, and himself from Addison; Leo Casey, Pete Morrow, Freddie Combe, John Comosh, Roland Loveless, Bob Leavy, Bill Moore, Hugh Dolan and Frank Conable all of Corning; Vic Borden of Westfield, Lou Tobin, Sam Woodburn, Dick Cornish, Lou Duffy and Bill Smith of Canisteo, Frankie Love, Ed Dailey, and John Woodward of Painted Post, and Harvey Brooks of Sayre and others who have cavorted on local diamonds in past years, when baseball drew train loads of people to Addison and paid players were the rule instead of the exception.

"Lefty" Flynn's younger generation will have "Little" Walt McDermott, "Gib" Doddato at second, "Rudy" Wade, Flynn, Don Grange, Maurice Robbins, Mike Triches, Ray Hargrave, Dave Little, Don Hadlock and others to be announced at the time of the game.

Lynnwood "Schoolboy" Rowe is at the bedside of his mother in St. Louis where she lies critically ill as the result of a motor accident, July 1. His stepfather was killed in the accident. Rowe is star pitcher for the Detroit Tigers.

Things happen so fast in the American League that last week Detroit was in the lead as this column was being written and when the paper reached the readers Cleveland was three games ahead. That is what I call a good league scrap when changes can come like that.

be paid on the composite test of all the milk. Renken then could test for his own purposes.

Earl Wilson, who stated he had signed a contract with the Union said he believed in the Union collecting its own dues and if it is not strong enough for that it is not up to the cooperative to help them.

Decker Praises DFU

Ralph Decker, member of the Union spoke of the Union's influence in raising the price of milk through a strike called last year by the Union. He said the Union had only $30 in the treasury when the strike was called last year. He continued, "there is no question but Renken will have to recognize the Union for over 85 per cent of the local plant producers have signed with the Union. The Union campaign on the trail of the distributors has caused the better price. The Union already has recommended $2.29 for September milk, $2.59 for October and $2.69 for November milk. Delegates of the Union in each county meet monthly and determine the price they should receive. These prices are sent to the State Secretary, Harry Carnal, and a blended price of all these county figures is figured for the average. The League and the Bargaining Agency tell you they are producers on this end, and on the other end in the city they are distributors. They are working for the distributors not for you farmer producers. You never get a Bargaining Agency itemized financial statement like the Union gives". He then advocated the Cooperative help the Union in a small way by taking out the dues from the Co-op. treasury.

DFU Organizer

Field Organizer Nakasian for the Union spoke on the setup of the Union organization, and the difficulties in organizing in communities where sentiment is against the Union. He denied that he or members of the Union were affiliated with the C. I. O. or the Communist party. He stated he is writing a thesis on the milk situation. He advised farmers if they stick together they can get what they want. He pointed out that in Hornell the milk plant there bought unneeded machinery and stored it rather than pay a surplus tax they were making so much money. Mr. Nakasian said that in no other organization does the individual farmer have so much to say as in the Union. He pointed out that the Federal Order sets only the minimum price and farmers can ask for what they want.

Secretary Kane pointed out that in voting for the Union dues to be taken from the cooperative treasury, two-thirds of those present had to favor the measure for it to be carried.

Before the vote was taken Mr. Decker pointed out that there was no question but what Renken producers will go along with the Union so that the cooperative, representing the producers, should pay the Union dues. He moved that the Cooperative pay the dues for a trial period of three months. Only eight of those present favored the resolution which was declared lost.

Secretary Kane brought up the question advocated at a recent meeting of the Cooperative buying carload lots of ingredients for members of the cooperative. After considerable discussion the matter was dropped.

S. Naval Reserves and has undergone extensive training.

The first day of this month Rear Admiral J. H. Towers, U. S. N., chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, sent a letter to Mr. Cole asking him if he was ready for duty, if the need arose immediately, or did he prefer to be placed on the list of those to be summoned at some future date. Mr. Cole's answer follows:

"I am ready to accept active duty at any time, in any locality or billet, and for as long as the need for my services may be evident to the Bureau of Aeronautics."

Mr. Cole, married, the father of three young sons and holding a governmental position, could have avoided any call to serve despite his membership in the Naval Reserves but elected to answer any summons to serve his country in any emergency that might arise. In explaining his attitude he said:

"I shall be called upon to vote on the compulsory military training bill and if I elect to support it I do not propose to vote to send any mother's son where I'm not willing to go first myself, regardless of family claims and regardless of my official position. In this great emergency I feel that all who favor conscription should be ready to walk in the front ranks of the army that will be called to duty and I'm ready today to take my place in that front rank."

The problem of the Republican party in the 1940 election resolves itself into changing 3½ votes per election district. Such a change in the northern, eastern and western states in 1936 would have resulted in the election of Mr. Landon.

The cost of sending a national political candidate on a cross-country speaking tour involves an expenditure of from $15,000 to $25,000.

In 1936, 36.8% of the voters registered in New York state voted for a gubernatorial candidate. Total registration was 5,557,000, out of which 4,821,000 ballots were cast. So close were the final tallies, that 13 additional votes per upstate election district would have changed the result of the election.
